What Aging in Place and Universal Design?

“Aging in Place”: means living in one’s home throughout one’s maturing years. It is important to be able to live in your home safely, independently and comfortably - regardless of age. Universal design of a home is an important feature many people are considering when either purchasing a new custom home or remodeling their current home.

Portfolio Properties Fine Homes (PPFH) has the in house capability and knowledge and certifications to design a house you can live in for a life time. Your custom home can designed and built to include features and flexibility for future needs with the latest in stylishness and craftsmanship.

These universal design features can include: extra wide hallways, door openings, special height vanities and cabinetries, elevators, special lighting, doorbells, intercoms, whole house communications systems, the minimizations of stairs, high contrast and low glare surfaces, zero barrier showers and baths to name a few.

Today’s home buyers want their homes to age gracefully with them and with a CAPS Builder, like Portfolio Properties Fine Homes, you’ll have options and resources to make that happen. PPFH will work with you to help understand the Aging-In-Place modifications that can be implemented in a new custom home or in your current home. Let us discuss with you the exciting new possibilities in independent living!
